KEY PRODUCT CAPABILITIES

EXPAND YOUR TEAM

Assigned intelligence analyst: Your organization receives direct access to a CrowdStrike intelligence analyst for up to four named contacts. Each analyst is assigned a limited number of customers to ensure rapid response.

Dedicated analysts (separate subscription required): CrowdStrike can dedicate a full-time Falcon X Elite intelligence analyst to augment your threat intelligence practice. Dedicated analysts have access to all CrowdStrike Intelligence tools, technologies and research, providing a relentless focus on your intelligence requirements.

Personalized onboarding: You receive a guided tour of all of the features and capabilities of your CrowdStrike Intelligence subscription, including intelligence reporting, indicator search, user administration and more. CrowdStrike also helps facilitate integration into your security information and event management (SIEM), threat intelligence platform (TIP) or other security infrastructure.

ACCELERATE RESEARCH

Requests for Information (RFIs): Threat intelligence research can be difficult, and CrowdStrike can provide assistance. An RFI is a request for CrowdStrike to perform research, on your behalf, into a specific threat to your organization. The research is performed by a domain expert who delivers a custom response for up to five RFIs.

Priority Intelligence Requirements (PIRs): PIRs align the activities of threat intelligence teams to the goals and strategies of your organization. CrowdStrike experts help you create PIRs, or leverage knowledge of existing PIRs, to provide proactive notifications of threat activities that may target your organization, employees or infrastructure. Examples of PIRs include:

- Which nation-state actors are targeting your region or industry?

- Are there threats from criminal underground sites monitored by CrowdStrike?

- What tactics and techniques are adversaries likely to use to exploit your infrastructure?

Worldwide threat telemetry: The CrowdStrike Security Cloud analyzes trillions of security events from across the globe every day. CrowdStrike analysts search this data to determine the prevalence of a specific indicator of compromise (IOC) globally or within your sector or region.
